

SOAKING UP SUMMER

Get Green Grass, Consider Conservation

As sweltering summer weather rages on, a few steps can be taken to conserve water and ensure lawns remain lush and green.

- Water early in the morning, which ensures more water soaks into the lawn or garden. Less water will evaporate during morning waterings.
- If using a sprinkler system, set a timer and ensure it is in good working order.
- Fix leaking spigots and occasionally check for leaks in hoses and lines.
- Use a rain barrel or other system to recycle rainwater.
- Use landscaping, mulch, and flower beds to keep water within the soil.
- Use a broom or leaf blower to clear debris instead of a hose.

- Cut grass on a higher mower setting. This allows the grass to grow deeper roots and become more resilient.
- Sharpen mower blades, as a dull blade tears grass and creates ragged edges that lose moisture
- A test for checking if the lawn needs water: Step on it. If the grass springs back, it doesn't need watered.
- Keep an eye out for discoloration, curling or wilting of grass, as these indicate heat stress
- Use a screwdriver to test soil moisture. Ideal soil saturation is 6-8 inches deep.
- Place a 1-inch-deep tuna can on the lawn to measure the amount of water used. When the can is full, shut off sprinklers for the day.

Give Us Some Space!

Residents are reminded to leave 3 feet between trash, recycling, and yard waste carts.

This allows the mechanical arm from the collection truck to pick them up without knocking them over or leaving them partially in the roadway.

Additionally, please make sure carts are at least 3 feet away from mailboxes, posts, trees, and vehicles. Ensure lids are closed and that carts are facing the proper direction as indicated by arrows on top of the carts. All garbage must be bagged.
